Larson Video Solutions™ offer the following video categories:

Customer Product Or Service Ads

One picture is worth a thousand words, but videos easily provide two thousand times that amount (per Forrester Research) besides reaching a larger audience on the Internet. We provide appealing videos promoting your products and services to your target markets with vivid details and excellent visuals. Online video results are increased in positive reviews and increased traffic linked to your products and services!

Customer Or Tradeshow Testimonials

Testimonials are even more effective with your clients giving positive reviews of your products and or services. Testimonials are very effective in bringing potential customers to your tradeshows or resource fairs. Your audience relies on positive reviews by real customers and exhibitors, which can increase your traffic and revenue. Market research surveys clearly indicate that videos are more effective for engagement, retention, and purchase influence!

Employee Orientation And Training

Companies should consider videos to educate new and existing employees, volunteers, and independent contractors. Orientation videos can provide an overview of company culture and operations, info on different departments, key personnel, company guidelines and policies, and future training availability for each position. Training videos are excellent for reinforcement on critical job skills and can be reviewed again for employees to understand the important items besides reducing staff training time!

Presentations & Lectures

Single or group presentations and lectures are informational videos to educate your target audience about various subjects. This can be a class presentation or an education course of one half-hour or longer videos. Thanks to websites and social media sources, organizations can promote their presentation video and reach their target audience at a much lower cost!

Product, Service, & Software Training

Companies may need to educate their customers about specific products, services, or custom software, how to use their products or software efficiently and properly, and how to gain more sales. This also helps to reduce customer complaints or experiencing returns on products. We can produce multiple training videos depending on your budget and marketing requirements!

Tradeshow or Event Interviews

Interviews are always popular because they allow your audience to learn more about your show event. We interview the organizer or event coordinator with specific questions to give your audience a complete overview of the upcoming tradeshow or event. This helps to drive more traffic and revenue to your tradeshow or event!
